Let Marriott & the community know
why you're on strike

Use hashtags: #1job #MarriottStrike

Our #MarriottStrike has been going on for nine solid days and is making a real impact on the company. The general managers' letters to guests say that guest services are limited or eliminated. Supportive guests are sending us photos of long lines, dirty rooms, and lack of amenities (see our website.)

Marriott and Kyo-ya knew we authorized a strike on September 10, yet they did not inform guests. They are still not informing guests about our strike until they check in. Even with limited services, many guests are still paying full price for their rooms.

Our hotels are making record profits off our work. We are the ones who care about our guests. The company doesn't care about workers or guests. They only care about their bottom line.

We're continuing to gain solid support from the community. Rep. Tulsi Gabbard made a public statement supporting our strike!

Strikers picketed at HiEmployment, a staffing agency that's sending strike breakers to striking hotels.

Our #Relayfor1job marched from Kualoa to Laie. We will continue through the North Shore for the next few days.

Sheraton Maui workers delegated PWC (People Who Clean) because they are sending scabs to cross our picket line.
