

MARRIOTT STRIKE BULLETIN

Day 48: Sat. 11/24/18

The Holidays Are Here. In the last bargaining, Kyo-ya walked away from the table without giving a response to the Union's proposal as a test to see if we would break during Thanksgiving.

It turned into a holiday many of us will remember forever. We were blessed with beautiful weather, family and fellowship. Our beach Thanksgiving had chow fun, pancit, sushi, basmati rice, and every dessert you could think of along side turkey and stuffing. We served everybody: houseless folks, college students, locals, tourists, and strikers.

This is who we are—even as we struggle, we still give. So we passed their test. Now it is Kyo-ya who is being tested—tested to see if they can re-earn their reputation as a decent Employer and positive contributor to the community.

Caroling action. Yesterday, we organized a protest caroling action and were joined by our community supporters, such as, UFCW Local 480, Democratic Socialists of Honolulu, and more. We ended caroling in the lobby of the Sheraton Waikiki letting the guests know in the merriest way possible that the community stands with the workers.

UH students and community supporters screen printed "One Job" shirts for strikers at the Moana picket line.

Strikers and community supporters sang protest Christmas carols at each of the picket lines in Waikiki and Maui.

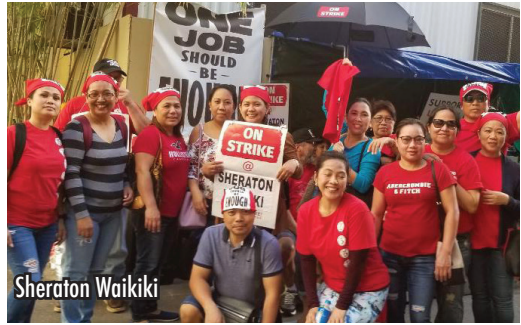

2500 Local 2 members in San Francisco are still on strike! Like us, they're strong & united—rain or shine!
